

Adrift: Seventy-Six Days Lost at Sea

Imagine being stranded in the middle of the ocean, with no food, no water, and no hope of rescue. That's what happened to Steven Callahan in 1982, when his boat capsized in a storm 700 miles from the Canary Islands.

Callahan spent the next seventy-six days adrift on a life raft, facing hunger, thirst, and the relentless forces of nature. He survived by eating fish, drinking rainwater, and using his ingenuity to create a makeshift sail and fishing gear.

Adrift is Callahan's gripping account of his ordeal at sea. It's a story of survival and resilience, but it's also a story of hope. Callahan never gave up, even when the odds seemed stacked against him. He found strength in his faith and in his memories of his family and friends.

Adrift is a powerful and inspiring book that will stay with you long after you finish reading it. It's a tribute to the indomitable spirit of the human soul and a reminder that even in the darkest of times, hope can prevail.
